

Roadmap Student Wellbeing Master BMS LUMC

I would like...

... to improve my mental health

- Study advisor
1. First point of contact for advice and help with personal problems, problems at the internship, study plans, delay, study problems, psychological problems and help with referral.
2. The study advisors have a number of books that can be supportive. You can borrow these through them.
- Coach
Would you like guidance in your personal and professional development? Two of our study advisors are trained as coaches and can offer you a trajectory of a number of coaching conversations.
- Student psychologist
For psychological problems that hinder your studies.
- General practitioner (GP) or practice counselor
Know that you can always contact the practice counselor through your GP, this is not covered by the deductible and is therefore usually free of charge.
- Suicide prevention: 113.nl
You can call or chat anonymously. They are there for you.
- Wij zijn MIND
An organization that gives voice to all people with (starting) psychological problems and offers their loved ones information, advice and support - online, by telephone and anywhere in the country (only Dutch).
- Gezondeboel
The Healthyboel E-modules have been specially developed for students and focus on the most common problems during student life. You can follow these modules anonymously (only Dutch).
- Stressbuddy app
Specially developed app for LUMC students, aimed at monitoring your stress level. It gives personal advice based on the degree of stress experienced. The stress buddy is offered through your education.
- Caring universities
An online platform focused on the well-being of students. You can follow different programs for your mental well-being for free. Eg: Moodpep Program: online self-help program to tackle mood problems.
- Unacceptable behavior
To be able to see where you can go if you have to cope with this.

Your first point of contact for questions or comments is always the LUMC education service point (OSP), they can refer you to the right place! You will find general information about promoting your well-being on the university's Student Welfare page.

... to relax more

- University Sports Center (USC)
From meditation and mindfulness to boxing and swimming. USC instagram: free sports lessons on IGTV.
- Healthy University: 10 min office chair exercise
To integrate into your daily routine.
- Cultural workshops
From drawing, to urban contemporary dance to Chinese calligraphy.

... to talk to someone

- Study advisor
First point of contact for advice and help with personal problems, study planning, delay, study problems, psychological problems and help with referrals.
- Buddy
Helps you to find your way in the program and study life during your first year of study. The emphasis is also on social bonding.
- Course coordinator
Point of contact for problems you experience during a course that you cannot or do not want to discuss with your teacher.
- M.F.L.S.-board
Walk by the room of M.F.L.S. to have a nice chat, or to get more information about committees.
- FSW coach
Personal coaching trajectory of 6 sessions (start March or October). The coach is more focused on the here and now, on personal development and achieving certain goals. The psychologist looks more at underlying psychological problems. Mail if interested: CoachingLU@FSW.leidenuniv.nl
- Student Counselors
Help with obstacles in which various regulations and legal provisions play a role (top sport; functional limitation; children/pregnancy; money problems).
- The listening phone
For an anonymous phone call/chat in case of fear, stress or loneliness (only Dutch).

... help with developing study skills or my career path

- Study advisor
First point of contact for advice and help with study plans, study delay, general study problems and referrals.
- Student support groups
If you are looking for social contact and support through weekly (online) meetings with a group of students.
- E-popcorner Brightspace
1-hour online workshops to improve the way you study.
- 53 courses from Leiden University
From studying effectively to learning more about time management and much more, the University offers various courses.
- Performance Anxiety Reduction Training
When stress and tension hinder you from achieving good results.
- Leiden University Career Zone
For advice on the transition from study to first job and for guidance on study choice and career questions.
- LUMC Career service
For advice on the transition from study to first job and for guidance on study choice and career questions.
- Studying abroad
To be able to see the possibilities with regard to studying abroad.

... to have more contact with other students

- Well-being Wednesday
Every last Wednesday of the month, various activities are organized to help you stay healthy and meet new people.
- M.F.L.S. committees
Join a fun committee of M.F.L.S. such as: BarCie, Gala Committee, Predoctor Committee or many more other committees. Here you get the chance to get to know people.
- Uni-life app
An app specially developed for students. Here you can see everything there is to do for students and you can easily get to know new people.
- Buddy Service
Are you looking for a study buddy? You will be put in contact with another student via the buddy service.
- First generation student
Are you the first in your family to go to university and want to meet fellow students who are or were in the same situation? Then become a member of the network for first-generation students of Leiden University.
- Diversity and Inclusion
To see what kind of networks/activities there are related to diversity and inclusion (such as: LGBT+ network, Afro Student Association, Access & Support Platform (for people with disabilities), Space to Talk About Race (STAR)).
